

LONG BIO

Jessica Toussaint is an influencer, inspirational speaker, coach, and an agent of change who provides guidance in all sizes—she helps individual men and women link their purpose and passion to allow holistic success, and she also helps strengthen organizations at ground level, providing a sturdy foundation for their futures. Her clients’ success is her ultimate goal. She is also the Founder and President of Bridge to Promise, Inc., a youth development organization that aims to help guide today’s young people toward physical, mental, and emotional fulfillment.

Having been extremely active in nonprofits for more than ten years, Jessica has contributed to The New York Call, State of Black Long Island Equity Council of the Urban League of Long Island, and Perfecting Faith Church, among many other organizations.

Inspired and encouraged by her parents who migrated from Haiti with goals of building a bright future in the US, Jessica earned her Bachelors of Science in Special Education and her Masters in Business Administration with a focus in Management in Leadership, both at Dowling College. She then became certified in Organizational and Community Leadership and as a Life and Success Coach

Jessica's success is due to her love of people—Her passion is to inspire and share with others. But when it comes to inspiring herself, she is driven by her faith in God, and by her desire to lead by example. In Jessica's free time, she does all she can to benefit her church and community, serving on several committees. Jessica's work has been featured in Queen Size Magazine, The Westbury Times, and LI Herald Elmont.
